Albert Lee Wright, Jr. Memorial Migrant Scholarship 2010-2011 Application Guidelines

Purpose: To honor a migrant farmworker student who has overcome barriers presented by mobility, who has performed strongly academically and who has provided service to his/her community. NASDME intends this $3,000 scholarship to go to a mobile student or students who have attended more than one school in a year and/or who have traveled on their own or with a parent or guardian in pursuit of qualifying agricultural or agriculture-related work in the summer or regular school term. Students who have not moved will not be considered for this scholarship. Preference will be given to graduating high school students entering college for the first time.

Eligibility A selection committee will screen candidates on the following criteria:

- Recent history of movement for agricultural employment
- Scholastic achievement
- Financial need

Application Process

A completed application form must be received at the address specified below by Friday, March 11, 2011 accompanied by:

- Two letters of recommendation, at least one of which must be from a school, community or educational agency representative with a personal knowledge of the applicant's character;
- A personal essay of at least 500 words telling about the applicant's background (please include information about disrupted schooling and barriers presented because of agriculture/fishing/-related mobility) and career and personal goals, and indicating why he/she should receive this assistance;
- A copy of a high school (or college transcript) showing the most recent grades obtained;
- Proof of acceptance and/or enrollment at a post-secondary degree granting institution. If acceptance is pending, applicant must keep the committee informed by e-mail (angelab@mt.gov) of acceptance as soon as it is received;
- Financial need documentation in the form of, but not limited to, a copy of the most recent school financial aid form, loan documentation, family tax return (include only the first two pages); or other letter from institution documenting financial aid; descriptive narrative regarding family's financial need;
- Proof of Migrant Education eligibility – (Attach a copy of a "Certificate of Eligibility" showing qualification during the past three calendar years or any time during high school). This can be obtained from a local school district through the migrant education staff.

Who was ALBERT LEE WRIGHT, JR.?

For more than two decades, Al Wright, a native of Louisiana, served as Migrant Education's voice and as the program's quintessential advocate.

Long before e-mails and listserves, Al made sure that migrant educators and other farmworker advocates were kept informed about important national and state developments impacting migrant families through the nationally disseminated publication, MEMO – Migrant Education Messages and Outlook. Al used his remarkable talent as a journalist to portray to MEMO's readers the many challenges faced by farmworker families—this nation's poorest and most disadvantaged people. He was living proof of "the power of the pen."

Al also served as Migrant Education's historian and archivist, as well as writing many of the National Association of State Directors of Migrant Education (NASDME) reauthorization position papers and developing much of NASDME's testimony to Congress on behalf of Migrant Education. He authored or co-wrote many articles for publication, including, "Children of the Road: Migrant Students, Our Nation's Most Mobile Population" commissioned by the Poverty and Race Research Action Council and published by Howard University. As a member of NASDME's Issues Committee, Al helped author a toolkit for the field entitled, "Giving Migrant Students an Opportunity to Learn." Al co-authored an article entitled, "A History for Advocacy for Migrant Children and Their Families: More than 30 Years in the Field" for the book, Scholars in the Field, The Challenges of Migrant Education, published by ERIC.

Ensuring access to educational and supportive services for migrant children was a constant and recurrent theme of Al's work and one to which he remained true throughout his career. After his retirement from many years at the Louisiana Department of Education, Al stayed involved with the Migrant Education Program by accepting a job as NASDME's special projects and events coordinator. He skillfully staged several of the annual National Migrant Education Conferences, an event with thousands of participants from throughout the nation and the largest conference of its kind dedicated to the improvement of services to migrant children and their families.

Just as countless children's lives were improved because of Al's life-long work on their behalf, so too were the lives of hundreds of his colleagues across the country just by having known him. Though he was a man who used words fluidly on paper, in person Al Wright was a man of few words. But when he spoke, everyone listened. He was an eloquent, always rational speaker; an articulate debater; a true Southern gentleman – in the best sense of the phrase; and a man of the highest integrity and honesty who could not and would not tolerate injustice.
